Sunday Reflection

Fr. Ed Smith

Genesis 2:7-9, 3:1-7; Romans 5:12-19; Matthew 4:1-11

Welcome to the season of Lent. We have now been in it since Ash Wednesday. You might not know it, but the word "Lent" means "springtime". However, if you think about it, the readings today don't really look very "spring-like" at first glance. Genesis talks about sin, and how it entered the newly created world through Adam and Eve; St. Paul reminds us that we are all part of the reality of sin and death; and the Gospel of Matthew recounts how Jesus Himself was tempted by the devil. How does sin, death and temptation relate to "springtime"? Well, before everything else, it is important to remember that these readings are seen through the lens of Christian hope. Yes, sin is part of our world; yes, death is part of our lives; and yes of course, we are all subject to temptations. But this is not the end of the story, nor its most powerful part. We know that God, in His love for us, did not leave us as victims of sin, but has given us the freedom to choose what is good, holy, and loving. We also know that Jesus understands our difficulties and vulnerable moments: even He undergoes temptation in His life and sympathizes with us. And consider this: People are tempted with many things that are not good for them. Jesus is tempted to take the easy way out of His hunger by turning stones into bread; He is tempted to show off His power by throwing Himself down from the tower and be unharmed; He is tempted to take all the kingdoms of the world to Himself. He rebuffs each of these temptations and shows the tempter for the liar he is. He shows us that it is possible to resist the manipulations of the evil one. He teaches us through His own life that we are better than that and we can follow His example. So, these readings that may seem negative are really filled with Christian hope. Therefore, welcome to "springtime," an opportunity for new growth in Jesus. Let us embrace Lent, with all the challenges in our lives, knowing that we are being led on a journey of purpose, goodness, and hope!
