Recognize God in Your Ordinary Moments

Not As Man Sees

By Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

I don't know Fr. Stu personally, but I've heard a fair number of his homilies. I think it is safe to assume that if he and I were to get into a discussion on any number of things, from church history to liturgical music to stand-up comedy, each of us would cringe at the opinions of the other.

But Fr. Stu happens to offer just about the only confession time within 20 miles of me that consistently works with my schedule. That means that, quite by accident, Fr. Stu is my regular confessor. For years now, he's sat patiently on the other side of the grille, listening to me pour out the details of my transgressions, from the pathetic to the embarrassing, and he absolves me of my sins.

In the Gospel, Christ links vision with humility and pride with blindness. We see again and again in Scripture how God delights in surprising us, in revealing himself through people, places, and experiences we not only didn't expect but perhaps had totally written off.

We are right to be proud of the truth, but we are wrong if the truth causes us to be proud of ourselves. The truth no more belongs to the one who believes it than sight belongs to the blind man in the Gospel. A gift does not reflect on the recipient. It reflects on the giver.

After a great deal of thought, I've decided to be grateful that God contrived to give me a confessor whom I strongly disagree with on so many things. It's a powerful reminder of how much I must receive from other people, even those I may think are wrong. In that confessional, Fr. Stu is only a priest, and I am only a sinner.

"Not as man sees does God see." – 1 Samuel 16:75

Sunday Reflection

Fr. Ed Smith

1 Samuel 16:1b, 6-7, 10-13a; Ephesians 5:8-14; John 9:1-41

Welcome to the 4th Sunday of Lent. The Church calls this "Laetare" Sunday: which basically means, "Let's start rejoicing!" Now why would we do that in the middle of Lent, when we are supposed to be focused on our sinfulness and penance and sacrifice? The Gospel gives us the answer: Jesus brings healing and hope! Jesus brings sight to the blind! Jesus is the Light of the World! It might seem too much to begin a reflection with that many exclamation points, but they are warranted this weekend. If you think about it, in terms of sheer drama, few Gospel passages surpass today's account of the man born blind being healed by Jesus. And one reason for its power is that it is not only about the blindness of the man who is given the gift of physical sight, but that there are three groups of people in the drama who are equally blind. First, the disciples are blind to God's goodness when they ask, "whose sin caused the man's blindness?", as if God punishes His people's sinfulness by inflicting physical impairments or injuries on them. Second, the parents and neighbors of the man are blinded by fear of being expelled from the synagogue, and therefore will not stand up for someone in their own family, even though they know that a healing has occurred. Finally, the Pharisees are blinded by pride and self-righteousness, and since they wanted to prove that Jesus was an impostor, they did not see what was right in front of them: a miraculous healing done out of love. All these characters interact in our Gospel, and some refuse to recognize Jesus as the one who truly brings light to those in darkness. Today's theme, then, is not so much about blindness, but rather about healing, light and faith. Jesus can heal us from whatever keeps us from seeing Him; He calls us to be light for the world; and He brings us to faith which can echo the words of the man in the Gospel: "I do believe, Lord!" And so, this Gospel is worth a few exclamation points: This is reality! This is love! This is Jesus! And it is important to talk about Him with excitement, conviction and joy!
