Sunday Reflection

Fr. Ed Smith

Jeremiah 20:10-13; Romans 5:12-15; Matthew 10:26-33

One of the worst feelings a person can experience is fear, whether it is being afraid of the dark, of being alone, of heights, of speaking in front of others, or of death. Fear is part of so many lives. In response to this, today's Gospel gives a wonderful triple-play, and all about not being afraid. In eight short verses, Jesus says: "Fear no one", and then: "Do not be afraid", and finally: "So, do not be afraid!" Three times in one Gospel passage, He is telling us that we never need to fear! How much clearer could he make it? But why should we not be afraid? Because Jesus puts life in perspective, and reminds us that our souls are eternal, that what He tells us in secret we are to proclaim in the light, that other people do not have power over our eternal destiny, and that our Heavenly Father watches over everything that happens on this earth, even to the point of noticing when a little sparrow falls to the ground. Simply stated, today's Gospel is a marvelous lesson about Providence. God is always a part of our lives: caring and guiding us along the way, giving meaning to our existence, quietly inspiring us to do what is good, and leading us to everlasting glory. If all this is true, then why in the world would we ever be afraid? It is true! And God's love is more powerful than any evil that could try to hurt us. God's love transforms our lives into something greater than we could ever have imagined. And God's love calls us to our destiny in heaven: an eternity of light, happiness, and peace. So, let's listen to Jesus on this one: "Do not be afraid!" because we have a Father in Heaven who gave us life, loves us throughout our lives, and wants us to share eternal life with Him. This should give us all great courage in the face of any fear!

Everyday Stewardship

When I was a teenager, after a homecoming dance one year I took my date for a walk on the Potomac in downtown Alexandria. The moon was out and I was struck by how the light shimmered on the water. I remember focusing to try to see all the details of the dancing rays on the ripples. My date didn't see it and didn't really get it. She thought it was no big deal. It was a great date and a fun night, but for that one moment we saw the world from two completely different vantage points.

Two of the greatest gifts from God to each of us are life and time. Without taking care, we can easily miss the grandeur and beauty of both. Being mindful as an everyday steward means pausing to see the detail in all that exists around us. God's creation is not something created with a broad brush, but instead with the intricacies of a master painter.

God created all things with purpose and a complexity only the divine could fully comprehend. Every single hair on our head has been counted! But when we take a moment to reflect on the beauty that is created by that complexity, we allow ourselves to revel in God's generosity. There is so much to give thanks for in this life. But you and I can't give thanks to God unless we really stop to take notice. When was the last time you stared in awe at the moon?

Question & Answers

Lectio Divina

Question:

What is Lectio Divina, and how is it associated with the Benedictine Monastic tradition, whose founder, St. Benedict, we honor on July 11?

Answer:

Benedict desired his monks to live in community, praying the Liturgy of the Hours together, contemplating sacred texts, and doing manual labor. The monks developed a technique to facilitate a spiritual and devotional reading of the Bible known as Lectio Divina, the holy reading of a text. This method encourages the reader to hear the biblical text with an open heart and focus on whatever God wants to highlight and then apply it to daily life.

There are variations on Lectio Divina, but essentially, the technique consists of a three-step process of reflection. When the reflection is done with a group, the responses are shared by all the participants. Once the text is selected, it is read meditatively, and the following are then explored: a word or phrase that attracts you; how and where the content of this reading touches your life today; what you believe that God wants you to do during this coming week (month, year, lifetime).

Thanks to Benedict, the Christian community has been gifted with this special way of entering into the biblical text. This week, use the Lectio Divina process on one of the readings for the coming Sunday and make a note of the life connections you are making. How is this reflection on the biblical text drawing you closer to God and others?
