“Did you not agree with me for the usual daily wage? Take what is yours and go. What if I wish to give this last one the same as you? Or am I not free to do as I wish with my own money? Are you envious because I am generous? Thus, the last will be first, and the first will be last.”

Sunday Reflection

Fr. Ed Smith

Isaiah 55:6-9; Philippians 1:20c-24, 27a; Matthew 20:1-16a

"Life is unfair!" We hear this from time to time, and maybe even some of us say it over and over. Yet most of us still do not accept that this is the way things should be. We want life to be fair: to see that good things happen to good people, and bad things happen to bad people. And, in the end, this is exactly what does happen: good things do happen to good people...and bad things do happen to bad people. But that is not the end. Good people also have bad experiences...and bad people have good experiences. What happened to fairness? Today's Gospel seems to be terribly unfair: people who worked hard all day are given the exact same pay as those who worked only an hour. Surely this can't be fair. But, as is always the case in a parable, Jesus is making a point about God's love, not human justice. The purpose of Jesus' story is that God's mercy is offered to everyone, whether they worked at being faithful all their lives, or only turned toward God at the last minute. But, if this is true, there is an important question to ask: "If God is going to take us to heaven if we wait until the end of our life to follow His commandments, why should we work hard all our lives to be good and holy people?" The answer is important: We don't work at being good and holy in order to earn our way into heaven. We do it because if we love God, we want to follow His will and do our best. It is like loving another person. We do what is right because we love them, not because of what it might get for us. In keeping God's commandments, we become closer to Him, and our lives become better, and we can be people of peace, purpose and joy. And this is much better than just being "fair" any day!

Olive Wood Carving Sales

October 7 & 8 | Following Masses

Christian woodcarvers from the Holy Land rely on tourism to support their families. These Christians make their livelihood through the selling of their hand-carved Olive Wood religious items. These olive wood carvers travel from parish to parish promoting and selling the handcrafted olive wood carvings. Items include various unique religious and devotional items such as beautiful carvings of Nativity Scenes, Crucifixes, and pictures of the Last Supper. Please look over these carvings after Mass in the Narthex and help support this self-help project that enables the Christians, present in the Holy Land, to stay in their homes
